DETAILED ACTION

Response to Arguments

1. Applicant's remarks filed 9/26/03 have been entered and carefully considered. Applicant's arguments are not found persuasive of patentability for reasons set forth herein below.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 7-9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Johnson (4472461) in view of either Hodgson (3645835), Metcalf (4559938), Tani et al (4789413), Ward (5000172), Kay, (5713842), Plews (5755681), or Takemoto (EP 0353972), as set forth in the previous action.

Applicant has not amended the claims in an attempt to overcome the prior art. In response to applicant's request for clarification the problem of "floating away" is described by Johnson in col. 5, lines 10-15). The skilled artisan would recognize the discontinuous pattern of adhesive taught by the secondary references would reduce this problem.

Applicant argues that the examiner has failed to present a motivation to modify the adhesive application of Johnson. The examiner recognizes that references cannot be arbitrarily combined and that there must be some reason why one skilled in the art would be motivated to make the proposed combination of primary and secondary references. In re Nomiya, 184 USPQ 607 (CCPA 1975). However, there is no requirement that a motivation to make the modification be expressly articulated. The test for combining references is what the combination of disclosures taken as a whole would suggest to one of ordinary skill in the art. In re McLaughlin, 170 USPQ 209 (CCPA 1971). References are evaluated by what they suggest to one versed in the art, rather than by their specific disclosures. In re Bozek, 163 USPQ 545 (CCPA) 1969. The motivation, suggestion nor teaching may come explicitly from the statements in the prior art, the knowledge of one of ordinary skill in the art, or, in some cases the nature of the problem to be solved. See Dembiczak, 175 F.3d at 999, 50 USPQ2d at 1617. In addition, the teaching, motivation or suggestion may be implicit from the prior art as a whole, rather than expressly stated in the references. See WMS Gaming, Inc. v. International Game Tech., 184 F.3d 1339, 1355, 51 USPQ2d 1385, 1397 (Fed. Cir. 1999).

In this case, it is the examiner's position that one having ordinary skill in the art would have found it obvious to utilize a discontinuous pattern of adhesive rather than a continuous adhesive layer. As previously set forth, such a combination would have been motivated by the reasoned expectation of reducing productions costs by using less adhesive and using less gas pressure to perforate the fabric. Applicant does not argue that the cited motivations are improper or inaccurate. Said rejection is maintained from the last action.
